Paris Terrorist Attacks

[At the G-20 summit, Russian President Vladimir] Putin urged nations to pool their efforts to combat terrorism, adding that the fight must respect international law, the U.N. Charter and each nation’s sovereign rights and interests.

“We understand very well that it’s only possible to deal with the terror threat and help millions of people who lost their homes by combining efforts of the entire global community,” Putin said. [Emphasis added.]

— “World leaders vow vigorous response after Paris terror spree,” AP (11-15-15)

With its coverage of the terrorism in Paris, the Establishment media has continued its own subversive deception. As our Media-Controlled Delusion booklet demonstrates, on major issues the media regularly retails points of view unchallenged that are not sincere. In so doing, the media helps conceal a far different agenda — an agenda that targets our freedom.

In particular, those “world leaders” who march to the internationalist tune do not want to resolve problems. Indeed, Vladimir Putin was merely echoing the internationalist line promoted by Strobe Talbott two decades earlier, just before he became Bill Clinton’s Deputy Secretary of State:

But it has taken the events in our own wondrous and terrible century to clinch the case for world government.... Each world war inspired the creation of an international organization, the League of Nations in the 1920s and the United Nations in the ’40s..... Globalization has also contributed to the spread of terrorism, drug trafficking, AIDS and environmental degradation. But because those threats are more than any one nation can cope with on its own, they constitute an incentive for international cooperation. [Emphasis added.]

— Strobe Talbott, “America Abroad: The Birth of the Global Nation,” Time, July 20, 1992

Internationalist deception: In the wake of the November 13 terrorist attacks in Paris, world leaders were quick to call for international action against the visible enemy. But they were silent regarding the internationalism that terrorism serves and the “convenient” role of the former Soviet Union in creating a worldwide terrorist movement. Sparking opposition from within his own party, President Obama publicly entertained the possibility of closer cooperation with Russia’s Vladimir Putin in the fight against ISIS.

In the above essay, Strobe Talbott, CFR, Rhodes Scholar, and now president of the Brookings Institution, glibly inverted reality by claiming that the two world wars inspired the creation of international organizations. Instead, designing men seeking to pull America into international government looked to war to advance their revolutionary scheme. And the modern threat of terrorism serves that and other subversive purposes.

ISIS: A Horrible, But “Useful” Enemy

Before Americans succumb to the propaganda that our primary enemy is Islamic extremism, they should learn more about the wiles and history of the Conspiracy.

It is important to understand that the Soviet Union and Red China came into existence, and managed to survive, only because of the intrigue of Establishment Insiders. For decades, these Insiders covered up the central role of the Soviet Union in fomenting international terrorism. In her 1981 book, The Terror Network, Claire Sterling quotes Dr. Hans Josef Horchem of West Germany’s antiterrorist Office for the Defense of the Constitution, “considered one of the West’s best informed intelligence analysts”: “The KGB is engineering international terrorism. The facts can be proven, documented, and are well known to the international Western intelligence community.”

Russian President Vladimir Putin, a veteran KGB officer, briefly headed up the FSB, the domestic successor to the KGB after the break-up of the Soviet Union. He rose to prominence in 1999 after “solving” a string of apartment bombings in Moscow. Putin identified the perpetrators as “Islamic extremists” from Chechnya, although ex-KGB officer Alexander Litvinenko believed that the FSB had secretly orchestrated the bombings, providing a pretext for a renewed Russian assault on Chechnya.

Regardless, Russia had long supported the “Islamic” terror network through its clients in the Middle East, while claiming to be a victim of that same network. Accordingly, informed Americans should not get excited over the charade that Presidents Obama and Putin might find common ground in the “fight against terrorism.”

Almost every issue presented passionately in the media these days conceals a hidden, organized agenda for power. Media-Controlled Delusion presents eight examples of how America is suffering from the delusion that no such agenda exists. Chapter 4 exposes the hidden agenda behind terrorism and America’s “War on Terror.” Chapter 4 topics include the strategy of terrorism (“the action is in the reaction”), examples of the Establishment’s support of terrorists, and the cover-up of Soviet involvement in fomenting terrorist movements. (And Chapter 7 deals with “Immigration Reform.”)

Unless the delusion that no sinister agenda exists is confronted and overcome, confused Americans will continue to surrender our liberties to big-brother government while they watch helplessly as the American dream evaporates. Fortunately, a central part of the mission of Freedom First Society is to provide Americans with the leadership to overcome that delusion.

Recommended action: Share Media-Controlled Delusion with responsible Americans. Follow up to show them how they can make a difference: 1) by distributing additional copies of the booklet within their circle of influence; and 2) by joining Freedom First Society and helping to build Chapters. Introduce those who are anxious to find out more about what they have not been told to Masters of Deception and The President Makers.

Save the Constitution!

by Andrew Carver

As we noted last month, in more than 20 states Con-con legislation will carry over to 2016 and become immediately available for consideration in January! Four of those states (Delaware, Michigan, Oklahoma, Tennessee) have at least one measure already through their originating house and into the other; in Oklahoma, HJR 1018 has also passed its committee in the Senate and is ready for a final vote!

In most states, 2016 will be the legislature’s second year; but different states have different rules as to what carries over, and what is allowed, in that year. Recently we posted a major update of the status of all states in our “Status of Current Con-con Resolutions,” including what is possible in each state in 2016. Please verify the status in your state, as well as the above four states, and give each your urgent attention and action.

As previously reported, a well organized Con-con lobby has been hard at work preparing for next year's state-legislative sessions in order to bring us to the brink of a constitutional crisis. In some states, new con-con calls are already being pre-filed for next year. So there is no time to waste in building grassroots opposition and informing legislators.

Recommended actions:

- Please check the status of your state on our website (see “Status of Current Con-con Resolutions.”)
- Contact your state legislators (whether or not their session has adjourned) in opposition to an Article V Con-con. Expose them to the light and force of the truth about Article V Con-cons. Introduce them to our “Dagger in the Heart” Campaign Action Report.
- Hand, mail, or email the RNC resolution described in our September Action Report to GOP legislators.
- Help build a sufficient force to carry the battle next year and for the long term by working to develop prospects and recruit them as members.
- Recruit these prospects into our campaign by asking them to inform themselves and contact their state legislators.

If you have any questions about how to proceed, please contact me via Kathy MacKay at FFS headquarters.

Campaign for Decency — Curb the Courts
by Andrew Carver

The recent Supreme Court decision requiring states to recognize same-sex marriage has many mainstream Americans understandably distraught. This is an excellent climate for FFS members to put an earlier key element of our Campaign for Decency back on the front burner.

We are talking about persuading a congressman to introduce a concurrent resolution, not subject to presidential veto, removing the appellate jurisdiction of the Supreme Court (per Art. III, Sec. 2) over cases about selected moral issues. This effort has multiple objectives:

- Create understanding among the public and Congress as to this important unused congressional power.
- Persuade a representative (or senator) to stick his or her neck out and introduce such a resolution.
- Once a resolution is introduced, build pressure on other congressmen to become cosponsors.
- Pressure both the House and Senate to pass such a resolution. This will take the Supreme Court out of the culture war and provide a foundation for further steps to recapture lost ground. (A limitation on future jurisdiction of the Supreme Court won't completely reverse the damage done from past decisions, but it's an important foundation.)
- Provide critically missing leadership re the real agenda, strategy, and objectives of the culture war.

Recommended actions:

1. Contact your congressman urging him to introduce a concurrent resolution similar to the model in our “Culture War” Campaign Action Report. (There is a link to that Report on the “Campaign for Decency” FFS campaign page. The same page also provides a link to a downloadable PDF of a model resolution.)
2. To friends, colleagues, and associates frustrated with the Supreme Court Decision, email links to our article “For Whom the Court Toils,” and Don Fotheringham’s excellent explanation, “Time to Curb the Court.” Follow up by inviting them to join in our campaign efforts to rein in the Supreme Court.

3. Especially to those who are active and show interest in learning more, distribute copies of the “Culture War” Campaign Action Report. Follow up by introducing them to the Media-Controlled Delusion booklet — and/or by inviting them to join FFS. Note: Copies of the Report can be ordered on our website (see Tools & Products) or by calling our office: 888-347-7809.

FFS Congressional Scorecard

At the end of October, the Republican-controlled House and Senate both passed a backroom budget deal. This Bipartisan Budget Act of 2015 gave President Obama and the big spenders everything they wanted. It drew the unanimous support of House and Senate Democrats, including Nancy Pelosi.

However, only a minority of Republicans in both chambers supported this capitulation (see House Roll Call 579 and Senate Vote 294 on our online scorecard). When the chips are down, the Insider domination of both parties' leadership becomes evident.

The "budget deal" raised the budget caps, so that House and Senate appropriators can develop plans for increased spending to follow the expiration of the Continuing Resolution on December 11.

This "budget deal" also temporarily removed the ceiling for the National Debt again without any effort to reduce the deficit. Proponents and media stories are heralding the passage as a great accomplishment to avoid a "disastrous" default on servicing our $18 trillion in debt.

However, the "raise-the-debt-ceiling or default" scenario presents Americans with false alternatives. There is another alternative. Either the GOP-controlled House or the GOP-controlled Senate, with sufficient constituent-inspired backbone, could use the power of the purse to trim unconstitutional spending and, in short order, turn deficits into surpluses.

Recommended action: 1) Read our online analyses of these votes, particularly the Senate, which includes the remarks of 5 GOP senators who stood against the measure during the "debate." 2) Share links to these remarks with prospects. 3) Be sure to compliment or castigate your legislators for their votes as appropriate.

Pending Legislation

The short-term FY 2016 "omnibus" continuing appropriations bill (H.R. 719) runs out on December 11. With the budget caps raised (see above), there will likely be a push for a new temporary omnibus continuing resolution, giving appropriators time to figure out how they want to spend "their new money."

Omnibus appropriations measures, common in recent years, camouflage accountability and prevent effective leverage of the congressional power of the purse. Some Senate Democrats have already stated that they oppose passing individual appropriations bills with the Republicans controlling both chambers.

Recommended action: Contact your congressmen. Insist they oppose any omnibus appropriations measure on principle (see above), regardless of the expected outcome. If and when there are individual appropriations measures, they should be supported only to the extent that they incorporate serious efforts to reverse unconstitutional spending.

In Closing ...

Finally, we send to every faithful member our affectionate regards and our wish for a blessed and Merry Christmas!

Action Summary

Note: Some requests below are ongoing from previous Action Reports.

3. Contact your state legislators to insist they oppose any calls for a Con-con. Ask others to do likewise.
4. Read and aggressively share copies of Media-Controlled Delusion. Follow up to develop and recruit qualified prospects. Also, share a copy with your congressmen and other elected officials.
